WIB&F's aim of is to encourage women in the financial services sector to reach their full potential.

Success deserves recognition. We rarely take the time to stand back and reflect on our accomplishments and many role models are unaware of the inspiration they provide to others. Recognition in awards such as these inspires and encourages all of us to achieve.

WIB&F Awards celebrate achievement in its widest possible sense. Every nomination is judged individually and stands on its own merits. All the nominees have attained success in many fields without losing sight of the real world.

WIB&F, as previously, will be writing to all the prize winners' employers notifying them of the award and detailing their achievements. On behalf of the Group, I would like to commend all the nominees on their success and congratulate the winners.

1st prize Elizabeth Hart

Elizabeth won two club class tickets to Rio presented by Nicole Parr, Key Account Manager of Lufthansa.

Elizabeth Hart has risen to numerous challenges in the past year. Elizabeth achieved 168% of her new business target for Barclays Private Bank Limited. Despite extensive overseas travel with her job, she passed the SFA Futures & Options exam. She has provided considerable support to her husband since he started his own business in November 1998.

She has been instrumental in developing the business plan, image, accounting procedures and target group marketing for the company. Elizabeth sacrificed personal holidays and expenses while financially supporting both the company and her husband.

Getting a new business off the ground is never easy and you would imagine it is hard to find time for anything else. Elizabeth also managed to successfully carry out the role of Membership Manager for WIB&F and assist Barnado's by gathering stock for their shops around southern England.
